Last year, in an effort to help the community during unprecedented times, the Emma S. Clark Memorial Library Board of Trustees made the decision to operate on a contingency budget. Therefore, in 2021, there was a 0% budget increase.

For the proposed 2022 budget we've worked hard to keep the increase under the 2% tax cap while still providing all of the important materials and services you've come to expect from the Library.

ONE BOOK, ONE COMMUNITY

A shared experience of reading and conversation

Stony Brook University, Emma S. Clark Memorial Library and the Three Village community join together in an inaugural project called "One Book, One Community". The goal of this collaboration is to have readers engage with great literature that explores topics and themes around important cultural, social and ethical issues. Through Campus and Library events, we hope to provide increasing opportunities to learn from each other by promoting dialogue around community values and by fostering connections between people of different ages, backgrounds and experiences. Our first book will be 2020 National Book Award winner — Interior Chinatown by Charles Yu.

Interior Chinatown by Charles Yu — Willis Wu plays "Generic Asian Man" in films, but dreams of being "Kung Fu Guy", the most respected role that an Asian man can attain. As he stumbles into the spotlight, he finds himself discovering the secret history of Chinatown.

How to obtain the book

1. Stony Brook University is providing complimentary copies of Interior Chinatown for you to keep. Visit the Emma Clark Library Adult Reference Desk between September 1 and October 13.
2. Borrow eBooks & eAudiobooks, available to all Emma Clark cardholders on the Libby/Overdrive app beginning 8/16.
